NUMBER 35

CONGRATULATIONS to Dick Clark, who last week was elected chairman of Alameda County Mayors' Conference. Hayward Mayor Jack Smith is the new chairman.

RECEIVED a letter from Marine PFC Larry G. Tracey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tracey, 1125 Neilson, and we thought you would be interested in what he has to say from Vietnam:

"I can't recall writing this type of letter but bear with me please and I'll give it a try. Being up there, just below the DMZ, there is a lot of sweat, bloodshed and sleepless nights. While we were waiting one day, a buddy of mine and I shared it with you, writing some of these kinds of letters. These are some of the hidden feelings we hold:

To Whom It May Concern: Take a man, then put him alone thousands of miles away from home.

Simply his heart of all its blood, make him live in sweat and mud. This is the life I have to give; my soul to God I give.

You peace boys' rant from your easy chair.

You don't know what it's like over there.

You burn your draft cards, march at dawn, chant your songs on the White House lawn.

You all want to be the bomb... the real war is in Vietnam. You use your drugs and have your fun.

When you refuse to use the gun, there's nothing else for you to do and I'm supposed to die for you?

I'll hate you 'til the day I die.

You make me hear my buddy cry, saw his arm a bloody shred, heard them say, 'This one is dead.'

It's a large price to pay for to live another day. I had the guts to fight and die and paid the price, but what'd I buy?

Who bought your life by losing his? Who gives a damn what a Marine does?

His wife does, his mother, father, sons.

They're about the only ones. I ain't that long a poem but I'll say very much. There

COUNCIL, SCHOOL BOARD DISCUSS 35-CENT TAX

Three members of Albany City Council and all members of the Board of Education again discussed the matter of transferring the 35 cents the city collects for the schools at a meeting at Albany Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday night.

Mayor Richard Clark and Councilmen H. F. Call and Joe Carlevaro attended the meeting. School Board members present included President Charles Pinkham, Max Kelly, Anita Tronoff, Milton Porter and Robert Nehls.

The school board said they are not opposed to the transfer if it can be done in such a way that the school does not lose the tax income, which provides about $80,000 or eight teachers per year.

They said the tax transfer would not be a tax reduction and that this should be made clear to taxpayers. They also reported a net increase of about $43,000 as the result of AB80 last year.

Clark noted that AB80 provided a windfall of about 15 per cent and that the city is being reassessed for the first time in about eight years now. The estimated increase in taxes as a result of reassessment might be 25-30 per cent, he said.

"If it comes through, I can see no need for the city to increase taxes," he said.

It was pointed out that the school tax rate of $5.27 plus the 35 cents the city collects for schools is $5.62. With 37 cents added for the bond issue, the tax rate is $5.99. The schools spend $5.73 average per student of which $2.10 is provided by state and federal funds.

School board members said their first responsibility is to the district and they do not wish to jeopardize it.

City officials indicated Albany needs better sewers, streets, recreation areas, etc. They said they are adamant about transferring the tax because they believe the agency spending the money should collect it.

They said there are limited alternatives on sewer improvement: a sewer service or connection charge, general obligation bond issue, special assessment district and state or federal funds.

Participants agreed the meeting provided a valuable exchange of ideas. It continued from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Oral Exam Questioned

Council Withholds Approval Of Two Police Promotions

Because some questions have arisen about Civil Service board exams for promotions in the Police Department, Albany City Council Monday night held over for a week two promotions within the department, but approved the appointment of John W. McGonigle as probationary patrolman.

With the retirement of Inspector Vern Freeman coming up May 15, Police Chief Ralph Jensen has, on the basis of Civil Service tests, recommended the promotion of Sgt. Carl Lindh to inspector and Officer Mel Boyd to sergeant.

Because the oral examination, conducted by three outside people under Board auspices, has been questioned, the Civil Service Board wondered if the exam could be declared null and void.

In referring the matter to City Attorney Larry Saler, Council decided it was imperative to approve the new patrolman to keep the department up to strength.

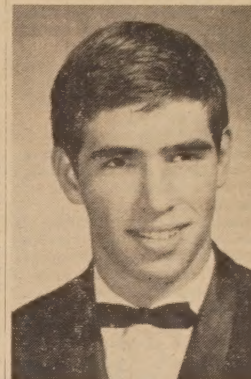

Councilman Lewis Howell pushed for approval of Lindh's promotion, but Councilman Joe Carlevaro pointed out that the police chief can appoint an acting inspector.

"They're up to their necks in problems in the department right now," Howell said.

A letter from Kathie Zahn urged Council to consider in their upcoming budget salary increases for police and firemen over and above the regular percentage increase given all city employees. She suggested calling it "hazard pay" because of the unusual hazards of their occupations. The letter was referred to the budget committee.

The Masonic Avenue Underground ordinance was held up again for more information. John R. Thompson of 816 Masonic spoke, urging the undergrounding of three PG&E primary dis-

'Operation Afghans' For Northbrae Women

Northbrae Woman's club has long been active in community affairs. One of its projects of long standing is "Operation Afghans."

In 1963 the Social Service Section, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. W. Holt Seale and Mrs. Ivy Melville, began knitting handmade knee robes for wheel chair veterans at Oak Knoll.

Since then, about 95 completed robes have been delivered to Oak Knoll hospital in person or put in the care of the Berkeley chapter of the American Red Cross for placement. Recently a dozen robes were sent to the veterans at Yountville.

Yarn for this project is furnished from the treasury of the Northbrae Woman's club, or in some instances knitters have donated both wool and work. Mrs. Melville collects six inch squares and combines them in attractive color arrangements, using 35 for each robe, then they are pressed and ready for delivery.

In 1964, Northbrae was given an award by the Veterans Affairs Committee of the Alameda District, CFWC, because of these gifts and the donation of a monthly birthday cake for the hospital.

First Aid Instructor Course Set May 14

Sgt. Phil Mower of the Berkeley Police Department, a Cross volunteer, will conduct training course for First Aid instructors at the Berkeley American Red Cross building May 14. Classes held Tuesday evenings from 10 p.m. for five weeks.

"Increased interest in first aid was evidenced by excellent public response to recent First Aid Special program conducted by the Cross in conjunction with Berkeley and Albany Fire Departments," said Arthur J. Safety Services chairman, Berkeley chapter. "Persons enrolled for the classes and 132 earned standard First Aid certification as instructors in the program who taught the course made this large scale possible."

"With more trained instructors we hope to see the program still further year," Mr. Bellman said. Berkeley chapter conducts aid classes on a year round basis and attempts to provide instructors for private groups of 10 or more upon request. Instructors are in constant demand.

Why make the arrangements now?

There are many good reasons why you are so wise to arrange the funeral now, instead of leaving this matter for your family to attend to at the actual time of need.

For one thing, you can make decisions calmly and with full presence of mind, whereas your family may be too emotionally distraught to think clearly and act decisively during bereavement. For another, you will give yourself the peace of mind that comes with knowing you've done everything the thoughtful provider can do for those he loves.

Our EMERGENCY GUIDE estate portfolio is designed to help you record all your wishes concerning the funeral, and to list specific information and instruction which your family will require. For full details, without cost or obligation, contact Ellis-Olson Mortuary.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, the month of May, 1968, marks the twentieth anniversary of the State of Israel, and represents the survival of democratic ideals in a troubled part of the world, being cause for celebration by Jews and non-Jews alike, and

WHEREAS, the Bay Area will be the locale of one of the most important commemorations, in that, the Northern California East Bay Region of Women's American ORT will sponsor a gala commemorative concert on Sunday, May 19, at the Oakland Auditorium, which will feature the West Coast premiere of Ernest Bloch's "Israel Symphony," and

WHEREAS, the ORT Union, the recognized vocational training agency of the Jewish people, will benefit directly from the proceeds of this concert.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Richard O. Clark, Mayor of the City of Albany do hereby proclaim the week May 13-19, 1968, as "Israel Twentieth Anniversary Concert Week" in honor of both the State of Israel and the ORT vocational training program, and invite all interested persons to support the program and attend the concert.

tribution poles at Washington, Portland and Brighton.

J. J. Sturgeon of PG&E said this could be undergrounded when the Masonic Avenue cross streets are done. Also discussed was the possibility of relocating the poles.

When Thompson urged Council to appoint a committee to set up a master plan for undergrounding the City of Albany, Sturgeon said, "Amen."

Mayor Richard Clark's suggestion that letters on the Masonic Ave. matter be sent to PG&E, Pacific Telephone and congressmen was adopted.

A whopping $111,072.76 under payment of claims was explained by Administrator James B. Turner, who said it includes 95 per cent payment for the new fire truck.

Council adopted resolutions accepting a deed to real property from the State of California and commending Vernon Freeman up on his retirement. Another resolution supports the California Garden and Home Exposition at Oakland Coliseum May 10-19.

Harris Dunkelberger of the Peace and Freedom movement had a letter on the agenda asking for passage of a resolution in which it was stated that Albany welcomes all people. He said this would help make Albany a "model city with regard to race relations."

After prolonged discussion, the letter was filed 4-1 with Mayor Clark voting no.

Other members of the Council expressed the opinion that Albany is now a model city in that there are no ghettos here but rather all people living together as a friendly city.

Clark said that he did not feel the resolution would answer the problem although it would be a positive move toward better race relations. He said all race relations problems have fear at the bottom and he believes Council should show some signs of leadership and responsibility to overcome these basic fears.

Dunkelberger, who said many people in Albany have strong racist feelings, was commended for his conduct at Council meetings.

It was announced that a rabies clinic will be held in Memorial Park Sunday, June 9. Mayor Clark said Council has been approached to consider a Mental Health Clinic here. On motion of Councilman George Hein, Council approved purchase of nice planters for the entrance to city offices.

Mayor Clark was commended on his election as vice chairman of Alameda County Mayors' Conference.

Under "good of the city," John Mullarkey said he cannot understand why Council did not adopt Dunkelberger's resolution. "Why can't we say 'We welcome people'?"

The meeting adjourned at 10:05 p.m.

Winners participating in the UN Annual High School Contest from high schools in Alameda County have been invited. These include Mark Foster, Albany High school.

A's Bat Day For Little League

More than 20,000 autographed bats, suitable for Little League play, will be given away to youngsters attending the Saturday day game, May 11, between the Oakland A's and the Chicago White Sox.

The bats are manufactured by the maker of the famous Louisville Slugger.

Each youngster paying admission to the game, who is 14 years or younger, will receive a free bat which has been personalized by the A's players. This is an excellent opportunity for Little League teams to get their season supply of bats, and, of course, enjoy a ball game at the Oakland Coliseum also.

Bats will be presented to both boys and girls as they enter the Coliseum. The gates will open at 11:15 a.m.; the game starting at 1:15 p.m.

BART Delays Costing Taxpayers Heavily - Bort

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph Bort has charged that every month's delay in squaring away Bay Area Rapid Transit District's financial problems is costing taxpayers of the three-county district $2 million.

The supervisors followed this warning by voting 3-1 to support legislation to raise Bay Bridge tolls to 50 cents to help finance the deficit.

Bort pointed out that BART is estimated to be $145 million short of enough to complete building the system. Because of interrelation between contracts—station-to-station, line to station, laying of tracks on the completed roadbed—BART cannot let the last $300 million in contracts until it is assured of the $145 million shortage. Taking an inflationary factor of five per cent per year (and this is conservative for 1968) each month's delay in letting these contracts cost $1,250,000 more.

In addition, the supervisor said, the purchase of rolling stock, 250 cars at approximately $50 million, cannot be ordered on the basis of revenue bonds until completion of the system is assured. Inflationary cost on this delay runs about $270,000 per month.

The third factor listed by Bort is the additional maintenance cost and loss of revenues of having a 75-mile system virtually completed but unusable.

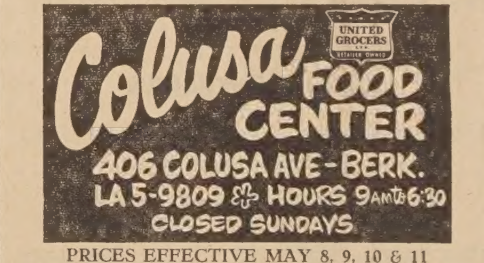

"It seems," Bort said, "imperative that legislators in Sacramento come to a quick decision and that we support any reasonable bill before we all go broke while we wait."

The Jumping Frog Jubilee of 1865

Made Famous by Mark Twain

It was in the summer of 1865 that the first Jumping Frog Jubilee was held in Angels Camp, or the entire world. Angels Camp, the metropolis of Calaveras County, California, was in that year a booming, roaring mining and frontier camp. There were hundreds of grizzly miners, who besides looking for the elusive yellow metal, also sought any and every kind of amusement. They were a sporty lot and would make a wager on anything, anytime, or anyway. There were numerous saloons, dance halls and gambling dens in the town.

At this time the roads were bad, travel was slow, in order to make a trip of a dozen miles, it required much preparation and time, and consequently the miners did not often leave town to seek amusement.

It was at this time that the miners followed the most unique sport of frog jumping or frog racing. Several of the miners had their own frog ponds or stables where they spent many long days training their jumpers. At regular intervals, a frog jumping or frog racing event was held, in which large sums of money was staked. Small fortunes were won and lost by the hop of a frog.

Jim Smiley, a local gambler, whom Mark Twain made famous, was the owner of the best jumper in Calaveras County. Jim used to parade around the streets with his frog in a basket under his arm, boasting of the ability of his particular frog.

About this time two slickers from the Bowery of New York arrived in town presumably a few days ahead of the sheriff of a neighboring county. These two boys were all that their make-up implied. They, in the course of their hounds of the gambling halls, ran into Jim Smiley, who was proudly exhibiting his jumping frog. After listening for some time to the boastful Smiley concerning the feats of his frog, Pete

Stag and Jimmy Ludren, who were the boys from New York, began to make light of the Smiley frog. After some arguments Stag or Ludren remarked that he didn't see anything about that frog that was any better than any ordinary frog. In fact, according to the New Yorkers they could catch any ol' frog from the town cistern that would beat Smiley's frog. That was too much for Smiley, the bet was on and a frog jumping contest was to take place at once.

It was agreed that Smiley was to do down to the cistern and bring back "most any ol' frog" that he could catch and that the Bowery boys would enter it in the race. The news of the contest spread. Several thousand dollars were staked by the two slickers. The town populace, knowing the jumping ability of Smiley's frog were easy marks for the two boys. Smiley left his frog in the care of the strangers while he was off to catch the "ordinary frog" that the boys had staked their money on.

While he was gone for the frog, Ludren or Stag went across the street to the old Scribner store and purchased some buck shot and proceeded to fill the famous jumper full. When Smiley returned and the race was on, poor Daniel, as Smiley's frog was called, being loaded with shot could not budge. The Bowery boys collected their money and headed for parts unknown before it became known that poor Daniel was more than half shot.

Mark Twain, the famous American humorist who lived at the Mark Twain cabin on Jackass Hill, made regular trips to Angels and Calaveras County. He stopped at the Angels hotel, where Ross Coon, the proprietor related to him the story of the framed jumping frog contest. Twain, sensing the humor of the story, immediately wrote his famous story, "THE JUMPING FROG OF CALAVERAS."

Just Follow These Simple Rules

1. Each frog in qualifying will be allowed 15 seconds on each jump. If the frog does not jump in that allotted time, he is disqualified.
2. After a frog is placed in the starting circle no one may touch it after the first jump, unless the frog is disqualified under Rule 1.
3. In all jumps, length of jump will be measured in a straight line from the starting point to the point of landing on the third jump. Decision of the judges will be final.
4. Evidence of drugging or doping will result in disqualification and forfeiture of prizes.
5. All frogs must be at least 4 inches in length from nose to tail.
6. Only three (3) frogs per owner will be allowed.

PROGRAM FOR THE DAY

On May 11, 1968, members of the Calaveras County Fair promotional group will be assisting the Thousand Oaks Merchants Association in Berkeley to stage our 3rd Jumping Frog Contest. This will be a preliminary contest for the annual Calaveras County Fair and Jumping Frog Contest, May 16-19.

Our contest will be open to people of all ages, divided into a junior division, ages up to 14 years, and a Senior Division of those over 14 years. This is not to exclude adults or any businesses who are interested in competing. The contest will be held at the 1000 Oaks Grade School (Colusa and Solano Ave.), starting at 12:00 p.m. until about 5:00 p.m. In addition to the Jumping Frog Contest, we will have a band concert (Berkeley High School) and a display of several Horseless Carriages. Of course, the Calaveras group and the Horseless Carriage group will be in full attire to dress up the show.

Registration for the Frog Jump will take place at the school grounds, so be sure to be there on time. Entry fees for the Junior division will be 50 cents per frog. Senior division entry fee will be $1 per frog by an individual, and $2 per frog if it is sponsored by a business. All names of entrants will be announced by the Master of Ceremonies along with the name of your frog. Prizes will be given in several categories, with the frog setting the greatest distance of the day and its sponsor being sent to Angels Camp for the World Famous International Frog Jump. For our local contest, the minimum length of the frog must be 4 inches from nose to tail. For further information call Marty Webb, 527-2141.

Together—Talk Together" and "Light a Little Candle." Also from Dr. Harris were two poems published in the Berkeley Short Story club's 60th anniversary edition published in 1966.

Other representative authors were Bud Eklund, Katherine Jean MacFarlane, Florence Mosier, Muriel and Tom Conroy, Beatrice Stephen Nathan, Paul D. Nathan, Emily Pausch, Elna Forsell Pawson, S. Irene Rickli, Ronald Silliman, James C. Wallman, Arthur T. Walker and Aileen R. Jaffa.

The Albany Library hopes to gain the consent of the authors to make this material a permanent collection of the library to be housed in the Reference Room.

One of the most interesting aspects of the exhibit were the biographical sketches of the authors compiled in folders with the published work.

During the exhibit, in the Reference Room, were copies of the local press media. The Albany Times, quite naturally, was the dowager queen of the group, but The Villager, The Rotarian, the Evening Star, and the popular and witty Lions' club Lamppoon also held court. With the Lamppoon—and proof that the written word is mighty—was the award winning Lions' Club Publicity Book edited by Carl MacWilliams and loaned by Past President Larry D. Sailer. All publicity chairmen of clubs should see this book, it is a lesson in artistic achievement.

Clark, Kohler Place Maritime Poster on Trucks

Mayor Richard O. Clark, Postmaster George B. Kohler, and civic leaders have placed the 1968 National Maritime Day poster on the city's mail trucks. The poster, which bears the slogan "America's Ships Deliver the Goods" will appear on all U.S. mail trucks during the month of May.

The purpose of the display is to increase the public's awareness of the American Merchant Marine and realization of the important role it plays in supporting our economic health and national security.

The month of May has been selected to display the poster because National Maritime Day falls on May 22. The date commemorates the sailing of the first transoceanic steamship, the SS SAVANNAH, in 1819. In 1933 the Congress asked the President to proclaim the day to publicly recognize the American Merchant Marine, its ships and the men who sail them. Ceremonies in observance of National Maritime Day will be held in numerous American cities, and American ships throughout the world will "dress ship" as requested in the President's Proclamation.

At the ceremony here today, Mayor Clark said: "The American merchant fleet is today carrying our exports to sell abroad, our imports of raw materials to keep our factories operating, aid to assist America's friends abroad, and military supplies to maintain our armed forces."

"By carrying America's trade, the American Merchant Marine is insuring that America's economy will flourish, and that the freedom of this nation and her allies will be maintained. It is to the advantage of our economy, our balance of payments and our security to have as much of our goods as possible go by American ship. Almost all of our supplies to Southeast Asia are carried by U.S. ships."

"It is good for us as a people to take time out on occasion to reflect upon the things that are important to us. Certainly an efficient and adequate U.S. Flag Merchant Marine is one of these. I hope that each of our citizens will recall the service the American Merchant Marine has rendered and is rendering to all of us as he sees this poster during the coming month."

Army Offers Opportunities For Graduates

Sgt. Robert L. LaVoie, the local Army recruiter, has extended a challenging opportunity to young men graduating from college this spring.

"The qualified young man who is looking for a job with real responsibility can find it as an officer in the United States Army," the sergeant said. "The 'Men Wanted' sign is out at the Infantry, Artillery and Engineer Officer Candidate schools. They are looking for men with the ability to successfully complete a course that demands the utmost in physical, mental and emotional endurance and stability."

"Upon completion of OCS, graduates are convinced that leaders are made, not born. And they are qualified to accept the responsibilities that go with leadership."

Applicants are permitted to state three branch preferences upon enlistment for OCS. One of them must be a combat arm. Candidates attending Engineer OCS may apply for their commission in the Transportation, Ordnance or Quartermaster Corps. Those who attend Infantry OCS may apply for the Military Police, Adjutant General, Finance, Chemical or Military Intelligence Corps. The Army makes every effort to assign OCS graduates to a branch of their choice, although specialty job assignments must primarily depend upon the needs of the Army.

Bort has been a practicing attorney for 15 years and has been the chairman of the Alameda County Bar Association. Bort graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1939 with an engineering degree, followed by a Doctorate in law from Boalt Hall, U.C., in 1942.

Other members of the Albany committee to support Bort include William Johnson, president of the Albany Chamber of Commerce; Hubert F. Call, Vice Mayor of Albany; John Pleich and Nick Reckas, Albany businessmen, and Realtor Jerome Blank, former Mayor of Albany.

Bort's platform, according to Co-Chairman Harold Olson, will point to Bort's record as Supervisor wherein he supported governmental economy and tax relief. Other planks include his support for law enforcement agencies in their fight to suppress lawlessness and disorder, his belief in equal opportunities for education, housing and employment, and his fight to prevent irresponsible tax increases.

Co-Chairman May Ellis Olson summed it all up by saying: "Bort knows the problems and has the facts. There is no substitute for experience, and Bort has it. Let's keep Joe Bort on the job by voting for him on June 4."

AHS Seniors Attend UC Symposium

"Government, Politics and Prejudice" was the topic discussed at the centennial symposium recently at the University of California.

Thirty Albany High school seniors attended the lectures, which included talks by Seymour Martin Lipset, Professor of Social Relations at Harvard University; Richard Hatcher, Mayor of Gary, Ind.; Wilmont Sweeney, attorney and Berkeley Councilman; Herman Gallegos, consultant for the Ford Foundation, and Robert Blauner, Associate Professor of Sociology, University of California, Berkeley.

Albany High Social Science teacher Harold Kushins organized the trip to Cal for the students, because he thought it would be interesting for them to hear different points of view about a topic which senior government students will be discussing in their classes.

Seymour Lipset began the lectures by taking an historical approach to prejudices and discussing the past prejudices of our country, and Richard Hatcher followed with a discussion on the need for Americans to realize the extent of the Negro problem. He said that America needs to commit itself to doing something about the problem.

Wilmont Sweeney talked about the problem of the politician who wants to do the "right" thing concerning prejudice but also wants to remain in office.

The Mexican-American problem and how it is ignored was the topic of Herman Gallegos' talk, and he stated that like the Negro, the Mexican-American is beginning to unite and not only request but demand rights.

Robert Blauner's talk centered around the idea that it is difficult to make a comparison between other minority groups and the Negro because there are differences. He said that the Negro does not control his own areas and that he has always been considered inferior in this country.

According to Kushins, the excursion was a success for the Albany students. "I thought the lectures made the students much more aware of some different viewpoints on prejudice. I'm sorry I could only take 30 students; I would love to take everybody."

The Lively Art of Leasing

If that old abstract on the wall is getting you down, relax.

There are special firms which will get you a new one on the leasing plan. You may also lease shrubs for your yard or new draperies for your home, all according to specifications.

And just in case you're looking ahead to bigger things, you might consider a brand new off-shore oil rig or a shiny new fire engine. As an individual you may never need any of these items, but they're there for the leasing just the same—of all places, at a bank.

An unusual arrangement? Not nearly so much as might seem.

Bank of America discloses that it has on file leases that cover everything from super jets and railway flatcars to ice cream makers. And if you think a request for an ice cream maker sounds a bit daffy in your banker's office on a Monday morning, try sounding him out on a Chinese fortune cookie machine, a garbage truck, or a ham injector to speed the aging process of ham. Don't be too surprised, though, if that banker turns out to have as much imagination as you think you have.

Ten years ago the average person's experience with leasing was mostly confined to cars or freezers, or a "tux" for that night on the town. Most people probably still have this image of leasing, except that in little more than a decade leasing has become a complex, but flexible and highly sophisticated tool of corporate management. And while in the past the leasing industry thrived on its ability to make money on cars, trucks, and computers, leasing firms now stand ready to meet customer requests for other equipment as well.

"Our decision in 1963 to directly enter the equipment leasing field was a natural outgrowth of providing the financial services necessary to support the operation of a modern business enterprise," says William McAuley, manager of the bank's Albany branch.

Explains Ray J. Timmerman, vice president of Bank of America's Equipment Finance and Leasing department, "Some of the requests may seem a little offbeat when compared to conventional leasing transactions, but the only thing that really matters to a banker is the applicant's credit and that the deal makes sense."

Thus the bank leased some furnishings to a West Coast restaurant chain executive for some dwellings in Arizona. Soon he was back to lease air-conditioning units for a group of privately owned restaurants on Southern California. Not long after he was back at the bank again and this time wanted B of A to lease him a $150,000 plane, to start a small air service in Colorado. Finally, his company leased a $700,000 Lear jet to be used specially for executives of the restaurant chain.

The main advantage of leasing, according to Timmerman, is that leasing offers a flexible means of obtaining costly equipment; it conserves a firm's capital and can result in possible tax savings. He estimates that some 10 per cent of the nation's two million railway freight cars are under lease. Major airlines too have taken advantage of leasing possibilities in acquiring new jet fleets.

B of A was the first major national bank to enter the direct leasing field in 1963 and over a five-year period has purchased some $180 million in personal property at the request of customers. All of which points up the scope of the national leasing picture, which in 1967 stood at $1.3 billion in outstanding equipment, compared to $560 million in 1960.

Not all of the bank's leasing activities, of course, border on the unusual, but some of the more conventional type of leasing covers some interesting areas. For instance, the bank owns a substantial number of California's new tomato harvesters, introduced several years ago in a new and faster method of harvesting tomato crops. It also handles a wealth of other farm equipment.

BRIDGE CLASSES

Berkeley YMCA is offering something new for bridge players when Ernest Noffsinger directs an eight week course in duplicate bridge play with discussion of the hands. This series will open Tuesday, May 14, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. and is open to singles as well as couples. Many people have asked for an opportunity to play bridge with the assistance of Mr. Noffsinger, who needs no introduction to the bridge players of the Bay Area. The class will be limited, so early reservations are necessary. Phone 848-6800 for reservations. The Berkeley YMCA is located at 2001 Allston Way, Berkeley.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. McMartin
(Cheri Lee Jensen)

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of imported lace trimmed with crescents of pearl sequins with matching, detachable cathedral train. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a headpiece of seed pearl and lace petals and she carried a cascade of phaeonopsis and stephanotis.

Miss Sandra Hicks, former Maid of Albany, was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Robert Brownell, Mrs. Jack Burns and Miss Donna Dick. Flower girls were Judy and Elizabeth Sutton of Manteca, cousins of the bridegroom. All wore long pink sheaths with cages of net and pink hair bows. Flower girls carried baskets of pink and white carnations. Other attendants carried colonial nosegays of pink daisies surrounded by white carnations.

Jeff Choate of Oakland was best man. Ushers included Phil Scaparro, Bob Brownell, Jack Burns and the bridegroom's brother, Bradley McMartin. Donnie Dennett of San Pablo was ring bearer.

A reception for 250 followed at Spenger's. The mother of the bride received guests wearing a pink sheath with lace coat, an original creation by B-Young Fashions of Albany, with matching accessories.
